SEVERAL of the state papers are making faces at Comptroller Bloxham for causing them to set up the tax sale advertisement and then tear down again without reward or the hope thereof. The brethren of the press should remember that Mr. Blogham has the gubernatorial bee in his bonnet and not disturb him the galleries.

In discussing the re-organization of the Florida Press Association the esteemed Pensacola News suggests that each paper be restricted to one representative. It occurs to us that nothing can be lost to the Association by being strong numer ically, provided that the quality is right. Let the membership be restricted to bona fide newspaper men, but let every such a one enjoy the benefits and pleasures of the Association.

We have no patience with the wapapers in this state that are industriously engaged in an effort to cojole the plain people into believing that they (the people) are too busy with the affairs of life to take a hand in the politics of the state. The effort is prompted by self-seeking politicians who hope to be aided in their designs by the apathy of the people. It is patri otic'to aid in the shaping of the government-from the municipality to the nation-under which we live. and the man who fails in this fails to discharge his full duty to his country. Every boy should be trained to take a lively interest in politics and one of the first principals in this training should be to stand by his friends and give his enemies the d-l.

"THE INSANITY DODGE."

A bill has been introduced in the Georgia legislature providing that the question of the sanity of per sons on trial for murder shall be submitted to a jury of judges of the superior court. The evil that the bill is designed to correct is claring one, and the remedy sug gested, or one equally salutary, cannot too soon he applied in states where the plea of insanity is so frequently and affectively entered in behalf of unworthy persons that the public has come to regard it as a sham and contempuously refers to it as "the insanity dodge." Under existing laws the plea of insanity has degenerated to this levil in Florida, and it is due to both those whose mental status really renders them fit subjects for the elemency of the law and to society that a change be made.

The present mode of procedure in such cases can work nothing but evil. Society has been so often outraged by the acquittal of men whose mental weakness has only developed after their hands have been dyed in human blood that the average jaror finds himself in engine dilemma when the is called to pass upon a case where the eanity of the accused knowledge of medical jurisprudence and is, therefore, totally incepable devotion to his personal fortune. her any fixed conclusions from the testimony of the inevita-This expert.
